

tools/call, start to finish

The two red exits never reach the model: a client catches them. The orange one does, which is why an argument the model can fix has to leave by that door.